

Call for Articles for ZDMG (Section Islamwissenschaft) - 2024

The Zeitschrift der deutschen Morgenländischen Gesellschaft (ZDMG), one of the oldest academic journals publishing on the Near East, Asia and Africa, calls for new and innovative articles on Islamic Studies of various length to be published in issues 175.2 (2025) und 176.1 (2026).

We accept finalized papers of up to either 70.000 characters (including summary, footnotes and spaces) or to 16.000 characters; see guidelines at https://www.dmg-web.de/page/hinweise\_en as well as list of abbreviations).

The ideal article has a historical orientation and is written on a strong philological basis. It deals with pre-modern Muslim societies (up to ca. 1800) and tackles one of the following broader themes: history, religion, culture, law, literature, societal issues. The ZDMG publishes articles in English, German or French. Arabic has to be presented in transliteration (DMG style; see https://www.dmg-web.de/page/transliteration\_en). References to online publications are welcome.

The ZDMG board will select the most suitable articles from those submitted and will publish them in the above-mentioned issues.

All selected articles will, furthermore, undergo a thorough screening regarding form and content.

If you are interested in publishing in the ZDMG please hand in your manuscript until 15 October 2024 to Prof. Dr. Jens Scheiner (jschein@uni-goettingen.de). In case you cannot meet this deadline it is possible to hand in articles with the next call in 2025.
